Best Advice:

- Initiate a new research project every seven years
- Do not join a band wagon but start your own even if it is diminutive

Most Rewarding Experience:

“It is yet to come.”

A photograph of a man in a red shirt and white cap sitting on a large, curved concrete structure. The structure has a wide, shallow channel running along its length. The concrete surface is cracked and shows signs of weathering. The background is a clear blue sky with some green foliage visible on the right side. The text "Uphill or down hill?" is overlaid in yellow on the lower part of the structure.
